YANKS SMASH AXIS ANCHORS ON SICILY

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

If you don't think it is a job to purchase flashlight batteries, just try it.

You may go from store to store without results, because such batteries are on the priority list, and it is only now and then that dealers receive a shipment.

There are large numbers of flashlights in the county that are without batteries just as there are many radio sets out of commission that have depended upon storage batteries.

For months it has been growing increasingly difficult to obtain flashlight batteries when they are wanted, just like many other articles that were abundant before Pearl Harbor.

When an inquiry comes from a British Guiana (South America) brokerage firm wanting canned corn and other products from this city, it is a pretty good indication that American goods are becoming more and more in demand throughout the world.

The Ladoga Canning Company here has received such an inquiry, and the broker must have been anxious to locate canned goods, for he paid 46 cents postage on his airmail request for the canned goods.

It is needless to say that there will be no corn or anything else from the local plant for anyone except Uncle Sam and a limited number of American dealers for sometime to come.

William DeWees, Sycamore Street, brought to this office Tuesday a small twig containing at least two dozen unusually choice Kelso plums, the branch being from a tree in his yard that is bearing an abundant crop this year.

Generally the plum crop, including most of the varieties, is light this year, so that the tree in the DeWees yard is an exception, according to reports.

Here's a little yarn that reflects one of the chief reasons for juvenile delinquency.

It comes through the Police Department and indicates the lack of parental control and parental influence over young children that is largely responsible for many of the juvenile troubles of the present day.

Answering the telephone Captain Jess Ellis was asked by a woman if he would go to a local moving picture theater and bring her boy home. She proceeded to give a description of the boy, and said he was 10 years of age.

After listening to the request, Captain Ellis informed the woman that he believed it was a case for the parents to look after their young son, and not appeal to the police to do so, and let it go at that.

When anything big breaks in almost any part of the world these days, you can almost bet there is a Fayette County man somewhere near, whether it is in the eastern war zone, the southwestern Pacific, the Aleutians, India, China, or other war zone, as well as throughout the United States.

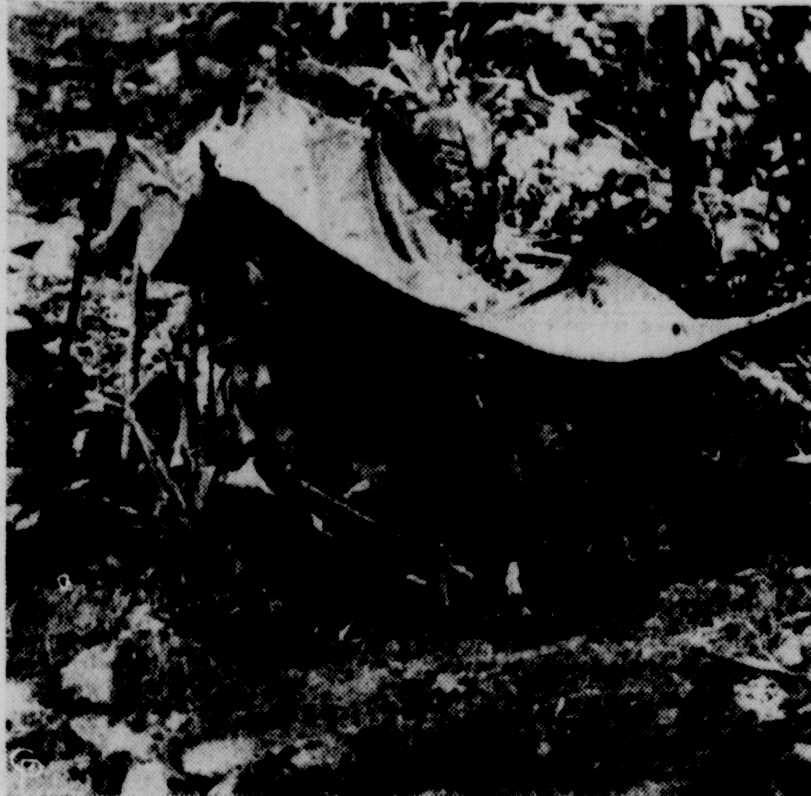

Last Friday when two army planes crashed in the air at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, and one exploded with a terrific roar that tore it to bits and a score or more of U. S. airmen lost their lives, John W. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson of the White Tile Meat Market, was within a few hundred yards of the scene and was almost deafened by the blast.

He sent clippings of the crash and a letter describing it to his parents.

British Troops Press Drive Around Mt. Etna While Germans Back Up

By REIMAN MORIN
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6.—(AP)—U. S. troops have plunged forward two to three miles on the north coastal road to Messina and in the central sector of Sicily have seized Gagliano in a steady rollback of Germans west of Mt. Etna, an Allied communique announced today.

The Allied aerial tornado, meanwhile, reached a new climax as Flying Fortresses bludgeoned Messina, the last big Axis escape hatch to the mainland, and air and naval forces continued to blast open the path on the north coast.

British and Canadian troops in the center smashed ahead toward Adrano in "steady progress" forward of Centuripe and Regalbuto, headquarters said, but the Germans are resisting fiercely.

Gagliano lies back of a line between Troina, where the American troops have footholds in the hills near the town, and Regalbuto, which was seized by Canadians. Its fall helps straighten the Allied line and further endangers the German defense shielding withdrawal of large Axis forces from the south and central areas of Sicily.

The communique said a British

FDR PLAN APPROVED AS FAR AS IT GOES

Republican Senator Wants Freedom of Enterprise

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Republican party was advised today by Senator Ball of Minnesota, one of its youngest national officeholders, to counter President Roosevelt's six-point war veterans' proposal with a "jobs for soldiers" program.

"The president's suggestions for benefits for the returning soldiers are fine and everyone can support them," Ball said, "but they seem to overlook this one thing that is going to be uppermost in every soldier's mind: 'where can I get a job to support myself and my family?' It's all very well to say that these men are to have mustering out pay and other benefits, but they don't want a dole.

"The trouble with the new deal is that while it has been broadening social security benefits, it has been gradually throttling private enterprise. I say, keep social security as a standby but take the shackles off free enterprise so that it can provide the jobs that are needed."

2,000,000 OVERSEAS

COMMERCE, Texas, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn (D, Tex.) today said the U. S. Army had 2,000,000 men overseas and the Navy would be twice as strong at the end of this year as it was at the close of 1942.

RUSSIAN DRIVE ROUTES NAZIS IN DOUBLE VICTORY

Belgorod Captured in Surprise Attack After Orel Taken In Bloody Battle

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—German forces were reeling backward in their first great summer retreat of the war on the Russian front today as the shattering Soviet offensive that crushed Orel struck suddenly 165 miles to the south yesterday to wrest Belgorod from the Nazi invaders.

The double victory which prided loose two of the most important German strongholds in the south-central front was hailed by Premier Joseph Stalin in a special announcement broadcast from Moscow as dispelling "the legend of the Germans that Soviet troops are allegedly unable to wage a successful offensive in the summertime."

"Death to the German invaders!" he told his victorious forces.

As Belgorod fell to the Russian drive threatening to push the cream of Hitler's forces back into the rich grain fields of the Ukraine, Nazi forces falling back from reconquered Orel were subjected to withering punishment from the Red air fleet.

The escape corridor to Bryansk, 30 miles to the west, was littered with burning trucks, guns and other war supplies, the Russians said, as Soviet bombers bombed and strafed the retreating columns.

Seventy-two German planes of formations which tried to screen the beaten Nazis were reported shot down.

By last night, German delaying forces which had been fighting from street barricades and sniping from attics and cellars had been mopped up, Russian reports said, and a large number of prisoners and much booty had been captured.

Gasoline Rations To Be Cut Midwest Congressmen Told

Cut in the gasoline allowance of midwesterners is expected soon following the statement of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, also national petroleum administrator, that gasoline supplies "must be equalized throughout the nation east of the Rocky Mountains." Ickes is pictured, right above, as he told a 58-member congressional committee in Chicago that depleted oil reserves make such a measure necessary. Also shown are Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., of Wisconsin, left, and Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, center.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes reiterated, in a meeting with congressmen from 32 midcontinent states, that a reduction in petroleum products for the midwest and southwest would be required to equalize the war burden.

The petroleum administrator announced also that he was renewing his efforts to obtain a price increase for crude oil, in order to boost its production, and one oil company executive declared that such an incentive to the industry might make it possible to abandon rationing by July 1, 1944.

To Battle OPA
Ickes said he would appeal immediately the Office of Price Administration's refusal of his request that the price of crude oil be increased 35 cents a barrel to stimulate production. The appeal will be made to the Board of Economic Stabilization, he said.

He declined to say whether approval of the 35-cent raise would forestall the proposed diversion of more oil products from the midcontinent to the east.

He told questioners some time would be required for the Board of Economic Stabilization to rule

4 SONS IN SERVICE GET FATHER PARDON

Otherwise He Would Have Faced Deportation

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker issued a pardon today to John Lekson of Cleveland, who has four sons in U. S. military service, to prevent his deportation to Yugoslavia.

Lekson was sentenced to Mansfield reformatory in 1907 from Belmont County for manslaughter. Paroled in 1909, he returned to his former home in Europe but later returned to America. The pardon prevents his deportation as an undesirable alien, attaches of the governor's office explained.

Lekson has been employed in Cleveland a number of years, is married and has seven children.

New Offensive Operations Against Japan Hinted as Soon as Airfield Area in Solomons Mopped Up

(By The Associated Press)
Allied headquarters announced today all organized Japanese resistance had ended in the bloody siege of Munda Air Base in the central Solomons, and at the same time Lieut. General Alexander A. Vandegrift hinted at new Allied sea-borne operations against Japanese in the southwest Pacific.

"The Amphibious Corps is ready for action," General Vandegrift told correspondents at an advanced South Pacific base.

A bulletin from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, announcing the end of the grim struggle for Munda, said a total of 1,671 Japanese dead had been counted by victorious American troops.

Munda was the enemy's key base in the heart of the 600-mile-long Solomons Archipelago and its capture marked a major stride in the Allied campaign of reconquest pointed toward the Philippines.

"Munda is now in our hands," a special communique said. "All organized enemy resistance has ceased. Action is now limited to destruction of isolated enemy groups."

Hundreds of Japanese troops, battling with suicidal fury, were slain in the last stages as American flame-throwers spouted death into their coral caves and foxholes.

SECOND FRONT PLEA RAISED IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Aug. 6.—(AP)—An urgent appeal for speedy establishment of a second front in Europe came today from the Soviet publication "War and the Working Classes," which asserted it would be "the key to victory over Hitler in 1943."

Declaring that the war had reached a turning point with Axis defeats on the Russian front, in Tunisia and Sicily, the trade unions magazine said that "the victory of freedom-loving countries over Hitlerite Germany is possible in the very near future."

Creation of a second front should divert at least 60 German divisions from Russia, the article said.

While in a German concentration camp Gestapo officers had left Hammerschmidt to die after they had broken his arches, smashed his knee, knocked out some teeth, shot him in the arm and stabbed him in the eye and neck with a bayonet.

West Virginia Flash Flood Toll Raised to 15 as Bodies Found

SUTTON, W. Va., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Rescuers searched today in the debris of a flood known to have claimed at least 15 lives for the bodies of six other persons believed to have perished, as survivors told of harrowing escapes from high waters.

The property toll rose above $2,000,000 as the little Kanawha River was swollen yesterday in central West Virginia to the

she was rescued from the torrent that swept away five other members of her family.

The body of her eight-year-old sister was taken from the Ohio River near Parkersburg, 23 miles from their mountain home. Rivermen, doubting that a body could be carried that far so swiftly, questioned the identification until it was confirmed by an uncle of the little girl.

RAID BLACKOUT ALARM SYSTEM BEING CHANGED

Surprise Test To Be Called Here This Month and Council Gets Ready

Washington C. H. and Fayette County will be ready for any surprise air raid blackout tests, such as the state defense director, Ralph H. Stone, has said would be held this month, but there probably will be some changes made in the system of alarm.

This was disclosed by Col. Rell G. Allen, one of the main cogs in the Civilian Defense Council machine here, but he declined to go into detail about the contemplated changes.

Fayette County had its first blackout test in May and it was labeled "100 percent effective". The first daylight alert came as something of a surprise in late afternoon on July 21 and also was called a success.

State Defense Director Stone said that surprise zone blackout tests might be conducted this month in the three areas in Ohio designated by the army as air raid warning zones.

Stone explained that the army, for defense purposes, had divided the state into three zones, namely: A, the northern section; B, the central section and C, the southern section, which includes Fayette County. He said the zone tests would be followed later this summer by a complete state-wide blackout.

He said that the zone division was based on the theory that attacking planes probably would approach from the east or north. The state would be blacked out according to the depth of penetration by enemy raiders. A statewide blackout, he explained, probably would begin in the northern section and move south progressively.

YANKS CAPTURE MUNDA AFTER BLOODY BATTLE; NEW OFFENSE HINTED

new Allied offensive moves in the offing came as he returned to the South Pacific war theater from the United States, where he was decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor and promoted from major general to lieutenant general.

General Vandegrift is the man who led U. S. Marines ashore at Guadalcanal just a year ago today. Now he will command the first amphibious corps in delivering fresh blows against Japan's invasion armies.

Along with the capture of Munda, good news came from the New Guinea front where field dispatches declared the big Japanese stronghold at Salamaua was so gravely menaced that the enemy launched repeated counterattacks against Allied troops advancing within five miles of the base.

A spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters said the enemy attacks were heavily repulsed and Allied fighters then swept forward to dislodge the Japanese from machine-gun posts.

Meanwhile, a Chinese army spokesman declared the Japanese, fearful of new air raids on Japan, were rushing aerial reinforcements for attacks on potential Allied "Bomb Tokyo" bases in China.

The spokesman said at least 80 planes had arrived at one enemy air field in Anwei Province alone and that the Japanese were hurriedly enlarging their two main air bases in Hupeh Province.

YANKS KNOWN HERE PRAISED

Discover German Occupied Hill and First To Enter Town

Staff Sergeant James Clapp, of Greenfield, who is known to many residents of Fayette County and Private Wallace McNeil, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNeil of Elm Street and nephew of Mrs. Harry Flee, also of this city, have figured prominently in news reports of the invasion of Sicily.

Sgt. Clapp led a platoon which discovered German troops entrenching a vital hill outside of Noficia and reported the fact to his commanding officer, who had thought the hill was free of the enemy.

In the battle that ensued, the Americans defeated the Germans, even after each side had resorted to the hurling of stones, the news report stated.

Private McNeil, who resides near Marion, Ohio, was among the first to enter the town of San Spelfano after the enemy had been forced out of the town and the Americans were greeted with cheers by the civilians.

WASHINGTON C. H. MARINE HELPS CAPTURE MUNDA

Sgt. Ernest Smith Is Given Praise for Building Observation Post

At least one Washington C. H. soldier played a prominent part in the capture of the Japanese base at Munda, on Rendova Island, in the southwest Pacific, when that base fell into American hands Thursday after one of the most tedious and bitter contests of the war, due to the necessity of the American forces cutting their way foot by foot through dense jungles, subject at all times to fire from the Japanese.

That soldier was a member of the Marines and is Sergeant Ernest Smith, 34, son of Mrs. Bessie Smith, who operates an apartment house at Washington Avenue and Elm Street.

Mrs. Smith had no direct word from her son for eight months, and was overjoyed when notified by a Record-Herald reporter that her son had broken into the news by reason of his daring and initiative in helping blast the Japs from Munda.

The achievement of Sergeant Smith is told in the following Associated Press Dispatch, from Rendova Island, under dateline of August 6:

"Marine Sgt. Ernest Smith, 34, of Washington Court House, Ohio, helped show the way to Allied forces in the fierce attack on Munda air base and vicinity.

"Staff Sgt. S. F. Stavisky, a Marine Corps combat correspondent reported Smith and three other Marines constructed an observation tower which aided a line of heavy field guns in softening up the Munda territory.

"He described the feat of building the observation post and paving the way for the week-long bombardment as an act of great physical strength and daring."

Only Thursday night Mrs. Smith received a long distance call from Sergeant Smith's wife, who is located at Woodbridge, Virginia.

Not having heard from her son for many months, Mrs. Smith had written several letters to his wife, but the letters were returned as she had gone elsewhere and the telephone call was the first word regarding Sergeant Smith that his mother had heard in months. His wife did not know of the news report at that time.

Sgt. Smith has been in the Marine Corps for 14 years, having listed when he was 20 years of age, and has seen some of the hardest fighting in the southwest Pacific.

mans launched sharp counterattacks but the Russians said their forces continued the general advance after annihilating more than 1,000 of the enemy and knocking out 16 tanks and 22 guns.

The Russian advance also was reported continuing south and southwest of the city where more than 30 villages were re-occupied.

More than 3,000 Germans died in the last phases of the battle for Belgorod, the Soviet announcement said. The Russians said their airmen brought down 66 enemy planes.

Orel's occupation had been expected, but Belgorod's fall came with stunning surprise, as official Soviet communiques had referred to action there as of local importance.

There was no official hint where Russia's armies next might strike the long German line extending from Stalingrad to the sea of Azov, but Kharkov, Ukrainian stronghold 45 miles southwest of Belgorod, appeared in danger of being outflanked by the Soviet forces charging into the Ukraine.

German propagandists, who announced Wednesday that their forces had evacuated Orel "according to plan," ignored the Belgorod defeat and attempted to minimize Orel's importance.

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, trans-ocean military commentator, declared that Orel was "anything but a strategic success" and placed Russian losses at 300,000 killed, 3,538 tanks lost and "other losses beyond estimation."

lic hearing on proposed gasoline rationing revisions, attended by representatives of an unofficial congressional committee from 32 midcontinent states.

Ohioan Is Chairman B. L. Majewski, oil company executive and chairman of the national marketing committee, said that if the industry obtained a price incentive for increased production "we think we can do away with rationing entirely by July 1, 1944, but first we must get the OPA off its base."

Representative Clarence J. Brown, Republican, Ohio, chairman of the congressional committee, said that if the oil situation, on the basis of information presented at the hearing, was summed up effectively by Representative Frank B. Keefe, Republican, Wisconsin, who told the assembly:

"It is quite apparent from what we have heard here the organization that holds the key to the entire situation is the OPA which is not represented here."

Ickes declined to say in reply to a question by Keefe where the responsibility for the gasoline situation lies.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark, Democrat, Missouri, told the meeting that on his return to Washington he would sponsor legislation designed to define sharply the responsibility for gasoline regulation and prevent its being spread through various governmental agencies.

YANKS SMASH ANCHORS OF AXIS ON SICILY AS ESCAPE PORT BLASTED

Eighth Army brigade accepted unconditional surrender of Catania, the east coast seaport and anchor of the Etna line, at 10:15 A. M. yesterday; and the British then swept northwest to take Misterbianco and cross the Simeto River to Paterno, 10 miles away.

Other British Eighth Army units were smashing ahead north up the east coast toward Taormina and Messina 55 miles away.

On the north coast the Americans are threatening San Fratello and late reports put them within two miles of that road junction, whose capture would cut the last lateral roads still in enemy hands.

The Flying Fortress assault upon Messina marked the first time in many weeks that the Allies' heaviest air weapon has been used against that badly-battered Sicilian target.

Wellingtons blasted the beaches near Messina and a follow-up raid during the night, to disrupt German supply efforts and the evacuation of non-essential personnel reported underway for about a week.

Swarms of medium bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters continued to fill the sky over the dwindling enemy bridgehead, roving unopposed over roads and railroads, hurling steel into troop convoys and blasting the towns

Fighter-bombers carried out repeated attacks on masses of enemy troops and cross roads areas, it was announced.

"Electrical installations on Sardinia were attacked during the day," the communique said. "Intruder aircraft operated over southern Italy during the night of August 4-5."

"Last night our bombers attacked enemy troops and shipping in the neighborhood of Messina."

"From all these operations, eight of our aircraft are missing."

(An Italian broadcast, which was recorded by the Associated Press, said Italian assault naval units escorted by a submarine penetrated Gibraltar harbor Wednesday night and sank a tanker and two merchant ships. The same submarine had entered the harbor on the night of May 7-8, when two British steamers totaling 17,500 tons and an American vessel of 7,500 tons were sunk by naval assault units, the broadcast said. All these claims were without Allied confirmation.

(The communique said casualties in the Naples raid, presumably Friday's raid in which heavy Allied bombers blasted that main Italian port, had been set at 210 dead and 474 injured.)

FORMAL OPENING OF LEGION HOME IS TO BE SOON

Veterans of World War No. 1 Doing Most Redecorating Work Themselves

Members of Paul H. Hughey Post of the American Legion today are working like the proverbial beavers to get their new home all spic and span by the end of this month so it can be formally opened.

A ceremonious dedication is tentatively scheduled for September 1, but none of the details have been worked out yet, R. B. Tharp, the post adjutant, declared as he added much work remains to be done and the boys are too busy right now to think about much of anything else.

Most of the work of cleaning and decorating the eight rooms of the former Knights of Pythias Hall, more lately the Moose Hall, on North Fayette Street, is being done by the veterans of the first World War while they think of the younger boys, many of them the sons of Legionnaires, fighting all over the globe in the second World War. They have been, and still are, putting in many hours of drudgery in the evenings and on their Thursday afternoon holidays in order to complete the job on schedule. Some even slip in to do their bit on Sundays, with their fingers crossed, because the press of wartime work prevents them helping out any other time.

Woodwork, walls and floors of the entire building are being repainted and although Tharp disclosed no definite plans as to color schemes, he indicated that the large assembly room would be done in buff and what he termed as "a sort of milk-chocolate brown."

Friday night dances for high school crowds will be held as usual, Tharp said. He added that no definite plans for USO, the suggested USO center, in the assembly room had been made. As far as is known now, the room will be used for dances, meetings, assemblies and promotional work of the legion.

"If possible, we want to get all the new furniture we need for the home, although we'll be glad to purchase used furniture if we can't get any other," Tharp said. He added that the Legion already possessed some tables and folding chairs, but that it wanted to obtain comfortable and substantial furniture for the lounge if possible. The drapes from Memorial Hall are also to be utilized "as far as they'll go."

"The place was just dirty—not in such bad condition," Tharp commented on repairs necessary in the redecorating of the home. However, he said some window frames and plumbing fixtures would be repaired.

The door into the assembly room will be changed and the heating plant overhauled and cleaned in order to see whether any repairs will be needed, Tharp indicated.

New lighting fixtures will be installed on the entire second floor, Tharp said. These fixtures will be single drop lights on chains.

When questioned as to the installation of a bar, Tharp explained that with liquor and beer rationing conditions as they are, it would be unlikely that they would have a full bar at present. He indicated, however, that a beer permit may be applied for.

The group of men who are largely responsible for the repair and cleaning work done already are: H. E. Wilson, commander of the post; Fred Dennison, first vice-commander; Sherman Hidy, second vice-commander; W. E. Hutton, finance officer; R. B. Tharp, adjutant; T. H. Craig, Jr., Howard D. Fogle, Jesse H. Mad-dux, J. Kent Hopkins, Robert M. Jefferson, Chester P. Dunn and C. C. Eakins—all members of the board of trustees.

July Receipts Are $1,051.35 More Than Same Month The Past Year

During the month of July postal receipts at the Washington C. H. office reached $4,762.77 compared with $3,711.42 for the same month last year, or a gain of $1,051.35 of July in 1942.

This big increase is in line with other substantial increases made by the Post Office here during the past few months.

During June and July a total of 4,328 motor vehicle use tax stamps were sold, compared with 4,568 for the same period in 1942.

The decreased number sold was 240, and was probably due to a decrease in the number of automobiles in use in the county.

STREAMS FLOODED
WILMINGTON — Following a 2.26 inch rainfall in 12 hours streams of the county were flooded.

ASKS DIVORCE

Married at Lincoln, Nebraska, November 17, 1942, and unmercifully beaten by her husband November 20, three days after their marriage, form grounds for an action for divorce filed by Eva J. Easterday against Albert W. Easterday.

Plaintiff states that upon defendant's request she went to Lincoln where they were married, and that she returned here. Defendant came home May 4, 1943, but did not stay with plaintiff, she charges. In addition to divorce she asks restoration to her maiden name and for other relief. John B. Hill represents the plaintiff.

WANTS DIVORCE

Guy M. Campbell, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court, Thursday, asked divorce from Mary May Campbell, whom he married here December 15, 1936. He charges gross neglect of duty. Plaintiff states that he and his wife had not been living together and he was indicted into the military service January 7, 1943. Charles S. Hire represents the plaintiff.

WAR FINANCING CHAIRMAN IS COMPLIMENTED

Chief of District Asks for Outline of Plan Here To Be Used as Model

Commendation upon organization of the Fayette County War Finance committee was received by F. E. Hill, its chairman, recently from John J. Rowe, war finance chairman of southern Ohio.

"I certainly appreciate your organization data. If we could get the same thing from everybody, it would be wonderful," wrote Rowe.

"Inasmuch as you have also been chairman of the War Savings Staff as well as the Victory Bond committee, I am wondering whether you would write me how you go about the 'in between drive' job, how you find out with any degree of accuracy the sales resulting from any specific promotion and in fact, anything you can give me so that I can help other committees."

The letter in which Hill was commended by Rowe on his organization also contained notice of Hill's unofficial re-appointment as chairman of the Fayette County War Finance committee. Rowe wrote that he himself had not been officially re-appointed to his post but was carrying on at his job and was sure that Hill would wish to do the same.

Fayette County system of war bond campaigns, of which Rowe approved so heartily, is planned by Hill on much the same basis as the Dayton Power and Light Company's organization here, of which he is manager.

Revolving about Hill, the organization consists of nine vice-chairmen in charge of sales records and personnel, manufacturers and utilities, women's activities, treasurer, special activities, publicity, promotion, rural activities and city wards. Most of these vice-chairmen have one or more co-chairmen who, in turn, appoint as many captains and salesmen as are needed to cover the particular territory to which they are assigned.

In addition to the vice-chairman, three bank representatives serve on the county committee.

All reports and statistics are turned into Hill who compiles all facts and figures for submission to the proper authorities.

GUN WIELDER HELD UNDER $1,000 BOND

Man Who Shot Sam Fugate Held To Grand Jury

Gilbert Jones, 36, of Middletown, accused of the shooting of Sam Fugate, 42, former resident of Washington C. H., on June 5 during a quarrel, was held to the grand jury under $1,000 bond when arraigned Wednesday in municipal court before Judge Edward Dell, in Middletown.

Hearing for Jones' wife, Pearl, who is charged with assault and battery, was continued, pending disposition of her husband's case. She was arrested on a warrant obtained by Mrs. Fugate who alleges Mrs. Jones struck her.

The shooting climaxed a dispute between the women over noisy children playing on the sidewalk. Jones told police he fired when Fugate pretended to reach for a gun, and Fugate was wounded in the abdomen.

ROADSIDE PARKS PROVE POPULAR ALL OVER OHIO

Fayette County's Parks
Visited by Many Picnickers

Not only are the roadside parks in Fayette County proving popular picnicking places during the war emergency of gas rationing and tire saving, but throughout Ohio the same condition exists.

During July, according to a statement issued by the State Highway Department, some 700,000 men, women and children visited the roadside parks in the state, or nearly double the number registered at parks in June.

Highway Director H. G. Sours offered these figures in support of the belief that the parks are proving a boon to families from the surrounding areas who, because of gasoline rationing, are staying close to home.

There were an estimated 670,000 visitors to the department's 300 roadside parks in July, compared with 343,000 in June, Director Sours said.

The number of persons from outside Ohio visiting the parks has dropped off heavily during the last few weeks, he added, "but attendance from nearby communities has steadily mounted." Parks along the state borders still draw many out-of-state visitors.

Family picnic groups make up the biggest per cent of users of the parks now, whereas in the past tourists were the ones using them the most.

Registration sheets for visitors is part of the equipment of the parks. Some persons hesitate to register, Director Sours was told. "The only use of the registration is to guide the department in determining if the park is of sufficient importance to the public to justify keeping it open and maintaining it. It is important now more than ever that the director of the parks register," the director said.

All of the parks have state inspected water and most of them have ovens, picnic tables and other facilities. The highway department maintenance crews keep the parks clean.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Allies Drive Two More Spikes In Coffin of Hitlerism by Capture of Catania and Orel

A couple more stout spikes have been driven into the coffin of Hitlerism in the capture of two highly strategic cities—Orel on the flaming Russian front, and ancient Catania in the north-east corner of Sicily.

Both these cities were vital anchor points for the Nazis.

The heavily fortified and strongly held railway center of Orel has for almost two years been the hinge for Hitler's great battle line between this point, not far below Moscow, and the sea of Azov.

Catania, crouching under the great volcano of Etna, has been the powerful position to which the Nazis and Italians hooked the left wing of the front which they threw across the last remaining tip of northeast Sicily in defense of Messina and access to the Italian mainland, only two miles across the strait from that port.

These two operations, while widely separated and seemingly having little relation to each other, are parts of offensives which in reality are acting as a pair of mighty pincers on the German front in Russia. This is so because (1) if the Russians have the reserve power with which to follow up their notable capture of Orel, it will endanger Hitler's entire right wing, and because (2) victory in Sicily brings the Allies nearer to possible invasion of the Balkans, which would further jeopardize that Nazi right wing.

In short, Hitler is being pushed steadily towards that day when he will have to pull back his entire vast line of more than a thousand miles in Russia in order to reach new positions which will afford greater security.

While this is a historic moment for the Allies, we should remember that these two captures are parts of continuing operations. Fierce fighting lies ahead in both theaters.

In Sicily the terrain within the remaining triangle which the Axis forces are defending is rugged and hilly. It's well adapted to defense and has been strongly fortified.

Thus we have the makings of a great battle among the innumerable hilly strongholds, many of which probably will have to be taken at the point of the bayonet—assuming that the Axis forces don't fold up, and there's been no indication of this yet among the Germans. Ultimately the enemy must surrender or be annihilated, for there is no escape from this triangular trap for the vast majority of the Axis troops.

It's too soon to assay the full import of the Red capture of Orel. The cracking of this major fortress represents one of the great victories of the war. Into it have gone the lives of many scores of thousands of fighting men of both Germany and Russia.

Incidentally, it's only ten days ago that I received a letter from an anonymous Nazi sympathizer, signing himself "A Soldier," who took me to task for saying that the indications were the Reds would take Orel. He said it was a preposterous suggestion, and sang the praises of the Boche. There are a lot of these fifth columnists still about.

The fighting which has preceded this victory has been titanic—reminiscent of the struggle at Stalingrad. In the face of the best defense which Hitler could muster, until they all but had Orel surrounded. Complete encirclement would have meant the annihilation of a Nazi force of some 250,000 men, but it would appear that the German command has been able to withdraw many of them.

Orel not only is a strong point, but it is a vital railway center, its capture will enable the Russians to reopen vital rail communications between Moscow and the southern sectors.

The ultimate effect of the fall of Orel might be catastrophic for the Germans, if the Russians have the strength to develop it. However, this is no time to jump to sweeping conclusions.

CRISIS INSIDE OF ITALY BELIEVED NEAR; MEETING OF CABINET IS CALLED

and out of the Foreign Office in Rome, lending credence to the belief that some important development was in the offing.

The Lavara Italiano, taking a different tack than that of the past two days, when the press on orders from Premier Badoglio warned the Italian people that "the war must go on," today declared the sessions of the British cabinet held last Tuesday "have been interpreted in many capitals as a prelude to an eventual armistice."

The newspaper said the position of Italy and her allies was "very fluid and very dangerous" in a moment when "the voices of the diplomats should be raised."

The Corriere Della Sera declared that thoughts of liberty and war dominated Italian minds today, adding that "many have awaited, during these unforgettable days, clearer words, and so are able to receive without excessive fear and without shame the There was little news of disturbances in Italy early today, but reports from frontier towns said that half-hour strikes were continuing in Milan and in factories in other industrial cities in northern Italy as a protest against the government's insistence that the war must be continued.

Reported from Rome today was establishment of a commission to investigate the riches that Fascist officeholders were reported to have acquired between October 22, 1922, and July 14, 1943, during the reign of Fascism. Fortunes irregularly obtained, it was said, will be confiscated by the state.

The possibility was seen that one of the hardest hit might be Galeazzo Ciano, Benito Mussolini's son-in-law, and former foreign minister, Ciano reputedly is one of the richest men in Italy. A Swiss correspondent in Milan said an air of desperation had settled on the Italian people and signs were scribbled on walls at night reading:

"Death to Badoglio and the King."
"We want peace and work."
"The Germans must get out of Italy."

CARDS ON THE TABLE

Evidence piles up to indicate that there not only is a determined effort being made in this country to make the government supreme in the lives and affairs of every individual, but that there has long been a definitely worked out program to accomplish that end.

We have seen the electric power industry dominated by a deliberate program to socialize it. We have seen the credit and banking machinery of the nation slowly but surely dominated by centralized authority. We have seen the owners of coal mines jockeyed out of control and operation of their properties. We seen definite evidence of an attempt to have the government step into the field of oil production, in spite of the record service rendered by the American oil industry. And now there are warnings that American railroads may be used as a springboard for a vast post-war program of socialized public works.

The foregoing "softening up" of private enterprise all ties in with the cleverly prepared program of the National Resources Planning Board. It has been repeatedly pointed out in the press and in Congress that many officials on our public payrolls are working for, or directing the boards and bureaus that have been planning a program of state socialism as another "emergency" project when this war is over.

It is no exaggeration to say that the day is rapidly approaching when we must decide whether we want to remain free citizens or travel the road of government-dominated serfs.

That the danger to free enterprise is recognized, is indicated by recent news reports from Cincinnati, where Wilfred Sykes, president of the Inland Steel Company of Chicago, in a public address said that industry must ask the two major political parties to proclaim whether they are for free enterprise or against it. Mr. Sykes might have said, whether they are for free citizens or against them, because there can be no free citizens without free enterprise. You are no longer a free man when you are dependent on government bureaucracy for your daily job, your shelter or your bread and butter.

NONSENSE MUST CEASE

One effective weapon against inflation is greater production of consumer goods. Taxes and bonds can never be made to absorb all of the war inflated earnings of the people. Moreover, it is becoming evident that price ceilings are a limited success. Therefore, to help maintain stability there must be sufficient production of necessities to furnish an outlet for consumers' dollars. If there is no such purchasing power outlet and wages continue to spiral upward, accompanied by astronomical government borrowing, the inevitable result will be more and more inflation.

Civilian production should not be curbed any more than is absolutely necessary to armament demands. The nonsense of artificial restrictions on pro-

Today's Horoscope

If you have a birthday today you are mentally alert, quick-witted, fond of a good laugh and have the capacity of entertaining others. Follow your ambitions steadfastly to success. Trust your own judgment. You have precise and fastidious tastes. Early this morning you may have an inspired idea how to earn more by helping others to increase their income. Decide to speed up production, and to get the most satisfactory co-operation possible from public officials. Figure out where you can find suitable advice about a safe investment for your surplus cash.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Charles Bonaparte, member of the cabinet of Theodore Roosevelt.
2. "Stonewall" Jackson never was president. Andrew Jackson served from 1829-1837, however. "Stonewall" Jackson's first name was Thomas Jonathan.
3. Yes—Benjamin Lincoln and Henry Lee.

duction merely to make the people realize they are at war, must cease. Lengthening casualty lists carry their own tragic story.

In addition to stepping up production, the reams of red tape entangling retail distribution must be removed. Rationing and price regulations must be simplified. Attempts to stop inflation by budgeoning retail prices back to lower levels, regardless of costs, should be abandoned before the distribution industry is demoralized. The average merchant operates on thin margins.

If the "get tough" theorists persist in hunting for excuses to curtail production and distribution, instead of hunting for means to achieve greater production and more efficient distribution, the country will have not only inflation but thousands of crippled industries. And instead of being able to sit in Washington issuing decrees from swivel chairs to co-operative, organized retailers, the price fixers will be forced to chase up and down the back alleys of the nation in a vain attempt to catch black market operators.

A FUTILE PROCESS

Frightened by false rumors of an impending soap shortage, many families have started making their own soap. As a result munition manufacturers are losing the by-product glycerine needed by our Army and Navy. This could be very serious.

It can not be reiterated too much that the government needs all the fats it can get, to make munitions. There is no soap shortage, actual or pending. Those who make their own soap not only get a poorer product, at the cost of much messy trouble, but they are hampering the war effort.

Washington at a Glance

By FRANCIS LEMAY

During Jack Stinnett's vacation, his column is being conducted by members of The Washington staff of The Associated Press. Today column is by Francis Le May.

By FRANCIS LEMAY
WASHINGTON—Unless America finds something better, the "gasoline age" has some 3,000 years to run—notwithstanding that known petroleum reserves are estimated sufficient for only 13 or 14 years more.

In the view of some Washington experts, we are approaching an era of synthetic fuel for locomotion.

While some Americans might believe that right now the time would be better spent in devising a synthetic beefsteak, the Bureau of Mines already has made experiments in the hydrogenation process for coal, and its finding is in effect that for many centuries ahead Americans may continue to buzz along the highways, airways and seaways as far and as fast as the law allows.

The bureau says the process, if applied to the total coal reserves of the United States, could yield enough oil to supply the nation's needs for almost 3,000 years at the present rate of consumption.

It figures the coal reserves at 3,000,000,000,000 (three trillion) tons—enough to yield 3,800,000,000,000 barrels of oil. The nation now consumes about 1,400,000,000 barrels annually.

Congress, when it returns after the summer recess, will explore the matter of future motive power, having been warned by the House Interstate Commerce Committee that with respect to natural petroleum "we face a period of declining supplies, increased demand, increased costs and prices."

Harold L. Ickes, Interior Secretary and war fuels and petroleum administrator has proposed that hydrogenation of coal, now confined to an experimental plant at Pittsburgh, be undertaken on an industrial basis as a guide for development of an industry when needed.

Meanwhile, elements within the oil industry and Congress are trying to find means of encouraging more discovery and enlarged production of natural petroleum. For four years there has been a declining rate in the number of new oil fields found each year. Discoveries since 1939 have been only about half of the consumption rate.

No definite cost figures have been worked out on hydrogenation, but it appears the established petroleum industry has no great worry in the prospect of competition as long as substantial quantity of natural petroleum remains.

"When production costs permit," said the bureau, "coal hydrogenation probably will serve as an auxiliary source of gasoline, diesel oil, tar acids and solvents. It is not necessary to envision the exhaustion of petroleum before coal hydrogenation can become economically feasible."

Experimental yields of crude oil range from 67 to 31 tons for each 100 tons of coal, or 168 to 78 gallons per ton of coal as mined. This spread is due largely to variations in moisture and oxygen content of the coals.

Efficiency of Hearing Aids

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ing aids and even if he doesn't like the idea of wearing a device on his head, he hasn't the slightest doubt that he can find one that will suit his case perfectly and allow him full hearing.

It is when he gets it that his first disillusionment is likely to occur. I think it is too bad that the deafness victim pins so much hope on these hearing aids because the final disappointment is proportionately hard to bear.

A study made by Drs. Senturia, Silverman and Harrison in St. Louis took 30 patients with different forms of deafness and tried them on all known kinds of hearing aids. Seventeen did not hear any better, or so little better as to make the use of the instrument valueless.

Operative Deafness

In efforts made to relieve chronic deafness I am not overlooking the possibility of the operation devised a year or so ago by Dr. Julius Lempert of New York. That has had a remarkable record of success in properly selected cases. But again it is not a cure-all for all kinds of deafness, as the men who are doing the operation will be the first to tell you.

Another experience that people who are becoming gradually deaf go through is that they think they are going to get better. They can't believe it is going to happen to them. There must be a cure somewhere, in this modern age of miracles. It is, of course, on the surface a shame to take the hope away from them.

But it is kindness in the long run, because they miss the golden opportunity of learning the one thing that will be the greatest comfort to them in the future—lip reading. They stand a much better chance to learn it while they still have some hearing left, but how many of them that you know even tried?

Types of Hearing Aids

To go back to hearing aids—it was found at the Central Institute for the Deaf at St. Louis that different aids might prove best for different people. In other words, there is no one kind of hearing aid that is "best." The kinds of deafness were classified as three: (1) middle ear, or conduction deafness; this is the most numerous group; the deafness is due to slowly growing adhesions in the middle ear which prevent the movements of the ear drum getting to the nerve of hearing; (2) nerve deafness in which the nerve of the organ of hearing slowly degenerates; and (3) mixed forms.

The first type is the most favorable for hearing aids, the second the least. Sometimes one kind of instrument worked better, sometimes the other. Bone conduction aids, for instance, are not necessarily better than air conduction aids. In general, the bone conduction instruments worked better in conduction deafness, the air conduction instrument in perception deafness.

In any case the maximum improvement is obtained only after considerable trial by the patient, and training with the help of a lip reading teacher.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

NATURALLY KAREN did not give any more thought or worry, during that afternoon while she was at her party, about Buffy's being with Paul than she had the day before when he had been with Martin. Paul had been right; she must share him more with others, and none better than the two men whom she had thought of as big brothers to this brotherless little child, so far from his own people and country. Paul usually was right about most things. He usually was very fair and unprejudiced. If he had not been, in some ways, where Buffy was concerned, she could see now that that had been partly her fault. She must do everything she could from now on to cement the relationship between those two, her fiancé and her nephew, by bringing them close together, encourage an affection and interest as warm as real kinship.

She felt that this afternoon that Paul and Buffy would have had together was a good beginning. So that it was with a relieved and light heart that she went up to the nursery quarters after her own dinner in the big dining room with some friends of her father's, which meant that the child had not dined with them as he sometimes did for this one meal, to see the boy and talk with him.

She would encourage him to tell her all about his day, what he and Paul had done together, what a nice time they had had. She might take this opportunity as well to tell Buffy that she and Paul were to be married soon, and so on, and so on, so pointedly, that she was hopeful they would have many more such pleasant times together.

Betsy, the girl who served as nursemaid, although Karen did not call it that in recognition of a five-year-old boy's tendency to regard himself above such "sissified" care, met her at the door. Her pleasant, competent brown face wore a thoughtful look that Karen noticed instantly, her kind dark eyes were troubled.

She said, "Buffy couldn't eat his supper, Miss Karen. I'm afraid he don't feel so good."

"You don't mean he's ill?" Instant alarm leaped into Karen's own eyes. "Didn't he eat anything at all?"

"No, ma'am, he don't eat nothing at all," the girl replied solemnly. She had had excellent references as to her ability with young children, so Karen knew she would not be easily frightened or exaggerate a simple childish ailment, although, of course, Karen reassured herself, as she went on into the room, that was all this was.

"I done put him to bed," the girl said, following her. "He don't eat rightly, Miss Karen."

"You mean . . . do you think he has a fever?" Karen lowered her voice and stopped with her hand on the knob of the sleeping room.

She must not let her concern manifest itself or be transmitted to the boy. He was such a bundle of nerves. She must not let herself become unduly alarmed either, but a temperature meant an infection of some kind.

"Yas'um, I think he has," Betsy's tone held too much conviction. "He done first get all chicken-flesh all over his lil body, then he gets all burned up jes as quick. Thas a good sign," she concluded darkly, meaning it was a bad—and certain—one. "Ah was jes gonna send for you, Miss Karen."

"We will send for a doctor," Karen would take no chances. "But we won't say anything about that in front of Buffy," she warned. No doubt he was coming down with something. No matter how careful you were, a child was sure to catch something some time, even if only a cold, which was what she hoped this would prove, or the lesser evil of an upset stomach.

Betsy had said he just could not manage to swallow any food, so she had not made him eat, which Karen agreed was wise.

He was feverish, terribly feverish. Her first touch on his flushed face proved that to Karen beyond any question of doubt. Of course children could run a high temperature at a slight provocation. "I understand you're not feeling up to snuff," she forced a cheerful tone and an over-bright smile as she leaned over the bed, her hand smoothing the child's thick, dark hair, too rumpled now as he must have turned this way and that. His dark eyes looking up into hers had the glaze of fever, too.

"Not very well," he admitted, trying to give back a little smile at the funny words she chose.

Karen asked if he hurt anywhere, but he shook his head. She wanted to ask a lot of other questions—if he had eaten anything that might have upset him, had too much excitement that day with Paul—but she felt such questions could wait. She did not want to lose any time in contacting the doctor, so she smiled back and told him she had something to do that would only take a minute and then she would come right back and sit by him. "I can tell you a story," she offered. "Would you like that, dear? Then you'll go off to sleep, and feel quite all right when you wake up again."

She would prepare him for the doctor's visit when she came back from her phone call.

Buffy replied, in a polite little voice, that he would like that very much, but there was not the usual eagerness in his tone and he turned his head and closed his eyes. Something like a long shudder ran over the length of his frail body beneath its covers, a big sigh escaped him.

Karen was now thoroughly alarmed, although of course he might still be having chills, and if his fever was high it would make him drowsy. She cautioned Betsy to stay close by in case the child called before her return.

The doctor said he would come immediately. Karen decided against telling her father until after the doctor had come and gone; he still would be entertaining the men he had had for dinner. As she turned to go back upstairs the phone rang; it was Paul calling her. She was glad he had called just then. It was a relief to be able to tell someone, but she explained she could not talk because she had promised Buffy she would return right away.

"Oh, it's nothing to worry about," Paul's voice, even over the wire, contained so much reassurance that Karen's alarm was somewhat lightened. She knew he thought she was trying to make a mountain again. Paul said he would ring her back after the doctor's visit, that he would want to know what the doctor had had to say. "Perhaps he caught something at that trailer camp," Paul added, "being thrown with other children, especially of that sort. Probably nothing to worry about, though, darling, measles or the like." His voice still remained reassuring, even cheerful, as if measles were nothing, which maybe they weren't, but it had not been Buffy who had caught them.

And HER fault if he had, Karen told herself, going more slowly up the long curving stairway again. Paul had been right again. She ought not to have let Buffy go, not because of the sort of children he had played with at the trailer camp—she was sure they had been very nice children indeed—but because of contagion. She had taken such care to make sure Buffy was built up with sunshine and vitamin pills and he was so much better and stronger, as she had thought. Was it only yesterday when she had noted how rounded and tanned his childish body was?

She had not asked Paul what he and Buffy had done today. But of course they would not have gone anywhere where a child could catch anything. If they had it could not develop this soon. But yesterday—that would be too soon, too, for very nice children indeed—but he flu or the like. . . . No use wondering, that was why she had sent for Dr. Bennet, to make SURE—no chances where Buffy was concerned. No chances for him again, like going to places where he might run such risks as picking up germs.

There was the doctor now. He had been prompt. She had not had time to prepare Buffy, but maybe it would be just as well. Dr. Bennet was gray haired and kind. No child could possibly be afraid of him.

Buffy was in a heavy doze when they went into him. His temperature registered 103. He still turned and tossed and murmured aloud now, as well as sighing and shuddering, almost as if he were on the verge of delirium, or, as Doctor Bennet said gravely, after a quite thorough examination, as if he had been badly frightened in some way.

Yankee WACS Meet British ATS

LONDON—Britain's women soldiers are giving America's girls in khaki the "once-over"—and vice versa.

The WACS are arriving with respect and admiration for the magnificent work the British ATS are doing. The ATS are welcoming the comparative newcomers in military service and giving them the benefit of their nearly five years' experience.

But women being women, the ATS and WACS are checking up with each other on some very special interest—clothes, pay work, regulations regarding make-up and dates.

A girl private in the ATS wants to know how many pairs—and kinds of stockings Uncle Sam issues to girl privates in the WACS. And the WACS want to know if the British girls get girdles.

Well, in the matter of stockings Uncle Sam is more generous than John Bull. The WACS get four pairs of cotton and four pairs of rayon. The ATS get four pairs of lisle.

A WACS officer on duty at a station where ATS are working told me the latter didn't think much of the WACS' cotton leg-gear. For one thing the ATS lisle stockings are of the same shade as their uniforms while those of the WACS are a slightly off-tone.

WACS can wear rayon stockings only when off duty. Only ATS officers can wear rayon. At present

WACS can get rayon stockings limited to one or two pairs at a time—at the U. S. army post exchanges. ATS buy theirs in shops with coupons. So far the WACS who are arriving fully equipped have not been given British clothing coupons.

But while Uncle Sam does hand out more stockings, more shirts and more of several other items of apparel, he is giving the ATS something to feel sorry for the WACS. The ATS get two nice pink corselets, as they call 'em, but Uncle Sam isn't giving any more girdles to his women soldiers.
